Twins start Espionage mag here

What with the CIA and KGB movies doing so well, why not a magazine about the nefarious activities in the world of spies? So, come Oct. 11, Espionage will hit the streets, published by two New Jersey women who happen to be twins. Jeri Winston of Englewood Cliffs and Jackie Lewis of Teaneck say their magazine will be dedicated to spies, secret agents, moles, coverups, stings, etc., with real and make-believe tales. Winston explained: "We will be digest size, bimonthly, with topics of blackmail, suspense, intrigue and other things immoral." Isaac Asimov will contribute a major piece to the first issue. Jeri, married for 30 years, and her thrice-wed sister added: "Since truth is stranger than fiction, it might be hard to tell which tale is nonfiction. But one thing about me and my sister, we never believe in lying about our age." They just turned 50.
